YOEAI™ / PRODUCT POLICIES · OWNER-REVIEW DRAFT

Product purchase & activation

Status of this document

OWNER-REVIEW DRAFT — NOT EFFECTIVE AND NOT PUBLISHED. Prepared 15 October 2026. This draft covers the Windows text-and-image edition and records existing product decisions. It is not a commercial-release approval, trademark registration or final legal clearance.

One-time purchase

The price, currency, edition, requirements and included services must be displayed before payment. The purchase is for the stated desktop product and vendor services, with no recurring license fee. Hardware, paid cloud inference, guaranteed performance and unlimited human support are not included. PayPal sandbox orders are tests, not real purchases.

Lifetime use and activation

The intended commercial activation supports continued use of the purchased version without periodic online renewal. Downloads and first activation require internet access. Offline verification then has no time limit. This does not promise all future versions, indefinite hosted services, future Windows compatibility or free support forever. The owner must approve the final lifetime entitlement before sales open.

One active registered computer

Vendor-managed activation supports one active registered computer at a time. Transfer uses the purchasing account to deactivate the old device and activate its replacement. Remove the old vendor installation when transferring. An indefinitely offline copy may retain its signed receipt; immediate revocation after transfer or refund is technically unavailable.

Current commercial state

PayPal sandbox connectivity is configured. Live payments and installer download release remain disabled pending the required release checks. This document does not enable purchases or certify the installer for sale.

Software rights & safe use

Open-source rights are preserved

Vendor purchase or activation terms must not restrict copying, modification, redistribution or other rights granted by GPL-covered software or applicable third-party licenses. The one-device rule describes vendor-managed activation, not an added restriction on GPL-covered code. Supply corresponding source, notices and license texts as required. This policy is not a replacement for the release license bundle.

Product scope and AI limitations

The edition described supports text conversations and understanding uploaded images, including attempts to read visible text. It does not generate images and has no microphone or speech feature. Verify important facts, names, numbers and decisions. AI output may be inaccurate and is not a substitute for qualified professional judgment when needed.

Hardware, context and PC actions

The normal edition demonstrated targets Windows 11 and a compatible NVIDIA GPU with 16 GB VRAM; Lite has separate requirements. Speed, memory use, heat and stable context depend on the PC and workload. Supported Windows commands require confirmation; the model is not granted unrestricted PC control. Phone access shown in tutorials is a temporary same-Wi-Fi trial.

Updates and service availability

The owner must confirm which updates and support services are included before live checkout. Hosted account services, payments, downloads and support require connectivity and can be unavailable during outages. Nothing in this draft excludes rights that cannot lawfully be excluded.

Branding and third-party marks

YOEAI™ is the product brand used by Bahraini.online. The ™ symbol indicates an unregistered trademark claim, not registration, worldwide exclusivity or legal clearance. The actual legal rights holder must be confirmed. Third-party marks remain with their respective holders; no endorsement is implied.

Privacy & data handling

Local chat and images

During normal local inference, prompts and uploaded images are processed by the configured model on the Windows PC. The default setup uses a localhost backend. History is stored in the app or browser profile on that device. Purchase, downloads, activation and support are separate online activities. Changing the backend or using other software can change data handling.

Hosted account and licensing data

The service uses account information, payment references, amount, currency, payment status, license records, device names and a device fingerprint for verification, activation, recovery and transfer. The current client sends a hash derived from a Windows device identifier, not the raw identifier. Treat that hash as device-related personal data, not automatically anonymous data.

Payment and service providers

PayPal processes payments under its own terms and privacy notice. Support should never request passwords, full payment-card numbers or private API keys. Hosting and payment providers may process information needed for their services. Before publication, confirm the legal data controller, providers, processing locations and any required international-transfer disclosures.

Support messages and attachments

Website support is separate from private local AI chats. General help does not require purchase; license-specific action requires ownership verification. Obtain consent before uploading screenshots or attaching conversation summaries. Remove secrets and unrelated personal information. Limit human access to authorized support staff. No connected external generative support service is claimed here.

Retention and deletion

Use the app controls to remove exchanges or clear local history. This does not guarantee secure erasure from backups, operating-system caches or other copies. Contact hello@bahraini.online for hosted-data questions. Retention periods, deletion response times, legal-retention exceptions and website cookie details are not approved yet and must be completed before this notice takes effect.

Refunds, support & owner approval

Refund request procedure

Contact hello@bahraini.online or open a billing/refund ticket at bahraini.online/yoeai/support. Provide the purchasing account, order reference and issue description. Do not send passwords or full card details. A human should verify the purchase and review the terms presented at purchase and applicable law. No discretionary refund deadline, blanket no-refund rule, eligibility guarantee or processing-time promise has been approved in this draft. Mandatory consumer rights remain unaffected.

Human and automated support

Support assists with installation, activation, account-based recovery, transfer and documented technical issues. Automated support must identify itself, use verified documentation and offer human escalation when needed. Do not advertise round-the-clock human staffing, guaranteed response times or a telephone hotline unless actually configured. Sending an email does not guarantee immediate handling.

Required decisions before publication

Confirm the legal seller and data-controller name, registration details, postal address and jurisdiction. Approve lifetime entitlement, included updates and support scope. Approve refund eligibility and handling. Set and implement retention and deletion rules, cookie and provider disclosures. Review target-market consumer and privacy requirements. Complete license/source notices, installer verification and commercial-release approval. This draft has no effective date until approved.
